THE MOVIE: SUMMARY

The following is a scene-by-scene comparison of the movie to the corresponding chapters in the book.

THE MOVIE: CHAPTER 1

OPENING SCENE: The voice of a narrator recites a Bible verse from Ecclesiastes 1: 5-11 that contains the quote, “The sun also rises.” (ACCURATE. Preceding Chapter 1 of the book is the quote from the Bible that contains the phrase “the sun also rises.”)The screen shows a street in Paris in the 1950s. (ERROR: Not in the book) The voice of a narrator is heard, saying that this is the Lost Generation that lived in Paris in 1922. (ACCURATE. Preceding Chapter 1 of the book is a quote from Gertrude Stein, “You are all a lost generation.”)

On the street outside Jake Barnes’s office building, he encounters an American soldier named Harris whom he knew in World War I. (ERROR: Not in the book) Jake tells Harris he decided to stay in Paris after the war and work as a newspaper reporter. (ACCURATE) Harris asks Jake if he is all right. (ERROR: Not in the book)

OMISSIONS: Jake describes Robert Cohn, a fellow writer and tennis partner he knows in Paris. Jake is not impressed that Robert Cohn was a boxing champion at Princeton. Cohn did not even like boxing. He learned to box to counter his shyness and feelings of inferiority for being a Jew at Princeton. Cohn’s boxing coach at Princeton was Spider Kelly. Cohn is from a wealthy family that pays him a monthly allowance. He is divorced with three children. Before Cohn could leave his wife, she left him. He came to Paris with a forceful English woman, Frances Clyne.
